Services:

Most inventory systems require a new customer to manually build their inventory item database which results in several months of downtime and high installation costs. COGS-Well, however, does the initial setup, including building the inventory item database, for our new customers. We do this in just a few days and for a few hundred dollars.

Customers:

COGS-Well is fortunate to be working with leading restaurants and restaurant chains. Our products are well suited for quick-service, fast-casual, and full-service restaurant operators. The products work well for both independent and chain restaurant companies. Below is a partial customer list (Curry Up Now, Pokeworks, and Fjord Fish Market are joint Revel customers):

"The level of customer service that we have received in addition to the knowledge of the entire team at COGS-Well is a breath of fresh air. The team at COGS-Well understands how restaurants operate and their product is designed so that restaurant operators can easily use and maintain their inventory system." Tim Anderson, President of Hideaway Pizza.

"If COGS-Well's mission is to make inventory control faster to implement and easier to use, then it is mission accomplished for COGS-Well". Gerald Tipton, Lulu's President.
